SPRING 2023

WELCOME

WHAT IS PROPELLER ?

We are a unique distribution service for boutique producers seeking direct access to UK independent retailers and regional wholesalers. The traditional Agent/Importer model poses serious obstacles to a winery hoping to access the UK for the first time, not least because there are far fewer viable 'slots' in importers' portfolios than there are bins on the shelves of quality retailers and wholesalers – and COVID has only made this bottleneck more pronounced. Witnessing the UK's upsurge in retail and online sales producers have explored other routes into the UK, but this usually entails landing the stock here themselves – an expensive and risky endeavour.

That's why we established Propeller. We provide 'distribution as a service' and set up their wines for long term success in the market, without the cost base or competing agency priorities of a 'normal importer'. Our aim is to help them develop a viable long term business in the UK, and because we don't make a margin on sales it opens up the possibility of our retail and wholesale partners becoming their regional agents in the medium term. Producers only pay a fixed monthly fee to support our sales team meaning that they retain control of the product lifecycle and can set optimal pricing for their wines.

This unique model allows Propeller to tackle some of the regions (and styles) where regular agents fear to tread, and our warehousing and distribution capabilities mean that numerous producers can pool resources in a single shipment, enabling us to offer you a more varied and constantly evolving selection of wines, most of which have never been seen in the UK before.

WELCOME

How did it all come about?

Propeller was formed by Wild Ferment, a specialist consultancy practice founded by UK wine trade stalwart Jamie Wynne-Griffiths, when he saw an opportunity to take his producer-importer matchmaking skills and apply them to the outdated system of boutique producers' ability to access the UK market. When this bottleneck essentially closed during COVID, Jamie wanted to find a way for producers to not only get into the UK, but have a full range of high-quality resources available upon arrival.

How can I buy from Propeller?

We'll set you up Trade Account and assign one of our regional Account Managers, then it's simply a case of ordering from us in the same way as you would a regular Agent. All stock is located at our bond at LCB, if you are an LCB bond customer and would like to discuss interbond transfers, please let us know.

To request an account form drop Jo a line: jo@propeller.wine.

What's your minimum order?

72 bottles, which can be mixed across the Propeller portfolio.

Enjoy!

Jamie and team

At Propeller we strive to bring you a rich and diverse range of producers and an ever-evolving portfolio. Over the last few months, we are delighted to have welcomed a host of new, boutique producers from around the world. Below you will find the new additions to the Propeller family.

NEW ADDITIONS

Kiss Of Wine Europe

Kiss of Wine's founder Jennifer Browarczuk makes the case for cans pretty perfectly. "We believe that few pastimes are as enjoyable as discovering new wines. But the traditional wine industry can be stuffy and intimidating. The can democratises wine and makes it accessible. You can enjoy the odd glass on a weekday evening or carry a can in your backpack on a sunset hike. We've travelled around Europe looking for the best independent winemakers"

Creekside Canada

Creekside has been doing its premium thing on the Niagara Peninsula since 1997, beginning as a small winery with 11 acres under vine. Over the years this determined little winery expanded its vineyards to include its premium red growing site, Queenston Road Vineyard, located in the St. David's Bench. The winery, located in Jordan, has become a wine-lover's destination in the heart of Niagara wine country.

Wine Unplugged Australia

Wine unplugged is a small, family-owned wine business that is home to the superlative wines of Pacha Mama and Cloak & Dagger - think of it as the 'glue' that binds them together. It's focus is on making wine sustainably, using minimal-intervention, working with premium cool climate vineyards and growers striving to create wines that reflect the season and place in which they are grown.

Cala Falcone Italy

Cala Falcone was started by Angus Walton, with the goal of creating Italy's first premium rosato and providing a luxury alternative to Provence. Angus has had a lifelong love affair with Puglia, so there was only ever going to be one origin story for this project.

Lakeview Canada

In 1986, The Gurinskas Vineyard was created from a 13 acre fruit farm on the Beamsville Bench as a retirement project by medal-winning amateur winemaker Eddy Gurinskas and his wife Lorraine. We're kicking off our collaboration with their Ice Wine - and reckon it's the best value example currently available in the UK.

Uncommon England

Some believed English wine would never be good enough. Some still believe great wines should not be canned. With growing conditions similar to Champagne 50 years ago and the evolution of new technology, Uncommon knew it was the perfect time to push England's young wine industry into new territory.

NEW ADDITIONS

Moss Brothers

Australia

The Moss Brothers name has been synonymous with premium Margaret River wines for more than 30 years, originally established by viticulturist Jeff Moss at Wilyabrup in 1984. Roll forward to today and the Moss Brothers brand remains a reference point for the region, producing pitch-perfect wines from coveted parcels.

Living Roots

Australia

Living Roots is a winery in both the Finger Lakes region of Upstate New York and the Adelaide Hills region of South Australia. Though Living Roots was founded in 2016, their legacy began six generations back with Thomas Hardy, Seb's great-great-great grandfather. In 1850, at the age of 20, Thomas immigrated to the new British colony, Australia. He soon planted the Hardy family's first grapes and jumpstarted 160+ years of family winemaking.

Hey Tomorrow

Australia

It's time to think inside the box. Goon, Bag In box, Chateau de cardboard. Whatever you call it, boxed wine has a bad reputation. If you want a quality drop it's got to come from a bottle, right? Wrong! Bottle or box, if you put terrible tippie in, a lacklustre libation comes out. Hey Tomorrow (and our friends at Laylo) put great wine in a box, finally!

Lightfoot & Wolfville

Canada

Lightfoot & Wolfville is a Demeter-certified biodynamic winery located in the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia, between the town of Wolfville and the UNESCO World Heritage site of Grand Pré. The project started in 2009 but the Lightfoot family's winemaking roots go back 8 generations.

Auld Family

Australia

The Auld family have a long history in the Barossa, beginning, dating back to 1842 when Patrick Auld planted the Auldana vineyard just outside Adelaide. Jock & Sam now hold the reins, six generations later, and the winery continues to scale new heights.

Miss Vicky - France

Anne-Victoire Monrozier (Miss Vicky to her friends) is a native Parisian who spent the first part of her career pursuing various high-powered roles in marketing and PR. Sustainability and the environment are at the heart of Vicky's ethos, and her new canned format dramatically reduces impact on the world around us without any compromise on taste or quality whilst also being practical and lightweight.

Joiy - Australia

Cath and Chris have been working with wine for as long as they can remember but ditched glass bottles in favour cans back in 2018 - a brave and pioneering stance at a such nascent stage for the can category. For them, wine is a part of everyday life to enjoy whenever, wherever. Why JOIY? They put the 'i' in 'joy' in homage to the old saying "joie de vivre" – the joy of everyday living.

A landscape photograph showing a vast vineyard in the foreground, with rows of grapevines covered in black protective netting. The vines are supported by wooden stakes. In the background, there are rolling hills and mountains, some of which are covered in snow or have a light-colored top layer. The sky is a pale, hazy blue. The word "ARGENTINA" is written in a large, white, serif font across the center of the image.

ARGENTINA

The Rolland Collection - Mendoza | Argentina

We are thrilled to be working the Rolland family. It's fair to say that few consultants have had a more profound effect on winemaking styles across the world over the last two decades than Michel and his wife Dany. Yacochuya is where their love affair with Argentina began, following a brief by the Etchart family to help them with their high altitude estate, boasting vines planted in the 1920's. Mariflor is the culmination of that affair and is part of the Clos de Siete project, on which the Rollands joined forces with other Bordeaux luminaries to create an Argentinean icon.

Fourth Wave - Adelaide Hills | Australia

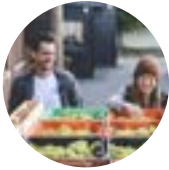

After stints at Southcorp, Fosters and McWilliams Nicholas Crampton and his wife Frances set-up Fourth Wave in 2009 with the aim of bringing a whole new level of topical relevance (and humour) to the Australian wine category. The extraordinary breadth of the Fourth Wave range today is testament to the fact that they've been able to create impactful brands that stand the test of time, not least thanks to the involvement of ex-Villa Maria winemaker Corey Ryan and a host of dedicated growers spanning SE Australia's key regions.

CHILE

Polkura - Colchagua Valley | Chile

Founded by friends Sven Bruchfield & Gonzalo Munoz in 2002 after they had both travelled widely around Europe studying winemaking, intending to establish their property. A glass of Syrah with some lamb in a café in Narbonne proved to be the inspiration for Polkura, recognised now as one of the pre-eminent producers of the variety in Chile. At 12ha Polkura is by far the largest winery in MOVI

La Recova - Casablanca | Chile

David Giacomini is Brazilian but moved to Chile in his 20's to finish his studies as an Industrial Engineer. Soon after obtaining his first job as a trainee engineer in a large Chilean multi-national company, he applied for a mortgage to buy La Recova, a plot that he'd long admired but which at the time was just (in his words) a 'savage hill'. He was successful, but on his entry-level salary he couldn't pay the mortgage and rent a flat in the city, so he built a house at La Recova instead, taking Route 68 every day back and forth to the office. He still makes his wine out of a collection of shipping containers, but it remains one of Chile's finest Sauvignon's.

Maurizio Garibaldi - Casablanca & Maipo | Chile

Maurizio's grandfather emigrated from Italy after World War I and arrived in Valpariso at the age of 16 with little more than his wits to sustain him. In the ensuing years he established a number of businesses before buying a vineyard in Colchagua. His son joined the enterprise in 1952, having studied enology back in Alba, Italy. They made wines together until 1973 when the Chilean government confiscated the land following the coup d'etat that brought General Augusto Pinochet to power. Maurizio's rejuvenation of that legacy has not been lost on the critics, both these wines are incredibly good!

CHINA

Xige Estate - Ningxia | China

Ningxia, an autonomous region located in the centre of Northern China, has seen huge investment from the Chinese government, which has elevated a previously poor, remote area into one of the world's most dynamic regions for fine wine production. An egg shape complex called Xige in Chinese, and informally known as Pigeon Hill in English, has risen from the dusty fields of Ningxia. Residents of those windswept plains have witnessed inspiring blueprints transform into a sprawling winery nestled within a curved stone wall.

ENGLAND

Folc - Kent | England

Founded in 2019 by couple Elisha Rai and Tom Cannon, folc started life during England's first taste of 'lockdown life'; a time when we were all forced to pause and find joy in small pleasures; a walk in the park, a late summer picnic. More than ever, we realised the importance of cherished loved ones, of family and friends, and local support.

Domaine Pichard - Madiran | France

The family-owned business is managed by Rod Cork (surely a strong contender for the best name in winemaking), Rod became the co-owner of Domaine Pichard in 2005 and has pushed the Domaine forward with great passion. The sun-drenched vineyards of Domaine Pichard stretch across 23 hectares of dramatic rolling hillside in Madiran, the heart of southern France. Certified organic in 2015 and trialing biodynamic methods since 2019

Miss Vicky - Beaujolais | France

Anne-Victoire Monrozier (Vicky to her friends) is a native Parisian who spent the first part of her career pursuing various high-powered roles in marketing and PR. Sustainability and the environment are at the heart of Vicky's ethos, and her new canned format (see the Alt Format section) dramatically reduces impact on the world around us without any compromise on taste or quality whilst also being practical and lightweight.

The Rolland Collection - Fronsac, BDX | France

Originally Michel and Dany Rolland bought Chateau Fontenil as a weekend get-away from their house in bustling, downtown Bordeaux. Consequently they didn't really anticipate making wine there, but the temptation proved too hard to resist, and in doing so they've elevated the profile of Fronsac as a whole. The 2015 is a masterclass in intense fruit and super fine tannins, the Defi takes this into truly hedonistic territory, and the white is something of an enigma - just a 'lowly' Vin de France because Dany likes Chardonnay, so it had to join the otherwise typical Bordeaux Blanc cepage. The result is rather special.

A wide-angle landscape photograph of a vineyard in Italy. The foreground and middle ground are filled with rows of lush green grapevines, supported by wooden stakes. A dirt path runs down the center of the vineyard. In the background, there is a dense line of trees, and further back, rolling hills or mountains are visible under a bright blue sky filled with large, white, fluffy clouds. The word "ITALY" is superimposed in the center of the image in a white, serif font.

PORTUGAL

House Of Beja - Alentejo | Portugal

House of Beja is more than just an Alentejano wine: it encapsulates the character and soul of this wine region and is synonymous with the Portuguese way of life — good food, good wine, love and tradition. This is proudly a Propeller project. We've teamed up with an amazing producer to produce a vehicle for barrels and tanks that don't quite make it into their 'grandes vins'. Quinta Do Paral - Alentejo | Portugal

Situated around the village of Vidigueira, Quinta do Paral comprises 102 hectares of mature vineyards, olive groves and cork oaks. The estate was owned by the Count of Palma and the Countess of Santar until 2017 when it was acquired by German businessman Dieter Morszeck, realising his dream to own a top flight wine estate. One of the estate's greatest assets is the wealth of old vine material with an average age of 45 years.

A scenic landscape photograph of a vineyard in South Africa. The foreground is filled with rows of lush green grapevines. Behind the vineyard is a dense forest of tall, dark green trees. In the background, a large, rugged mountain with a rocky, grey facade rises majestically. The mountain's peaks are partially shrouded in thick, white clouds. The sky above is a clear, bright blue. The overall scene is bathed in the warm, golden light of late afternoon or early morning, creating a serene and picturesque atmosphere.

SOUTH AFRICA

Rascallion - Western Cape | South Africa

Ross Sleet launched Rascallion in 2018 with the aim of creating a collection of brands that were daring, unconventional, and centred on blends inspired by his travels in Southern France and the Iberian peninsula. Rascallion is wholly (and unashamedly) a négociant business, which leaves Ross and his consultant winemaker Rianie Strydom able to freely source wine to incredibly exacting standards and specifications, from Stellenbosch, the Swartland, Darling, Robertson and Pikenierskloof.

The word "SPAIN" is printed in a white, serif font in the upper right area of the image.

SPAIN

Bigardo - Toro | Spain

The Toro-born Kiko Calvo travelled around the world working in wineries before returning home to make his artisan, small production "rebellious" wine from his great-grandfather's vineyards. A very different TORO. Less oak, less extract, more freshness. With his father in the vineyards and sister by his side, Kiko is quickly becoming a Toro legend. He follows his way of doing things, nonconformist with no boundaries and an insatiable appetite to experiment and explore the limits of his great-grandfathers' vineyards. He is already pushing the boundaries of the region of Toro and has only just begun!

Botas De Barro - Spain

For over 20 years, Nicola Thornton, originally from Sheffield, has created an amazing network of farmers and winemakers throughout Spain. Many of those growers felt disgruntled about being taken advantage of by larger producers and weren't getting paid decent wages for their crops. She said they'd often tell the younger generations not to get into viticulture because it was a tough life for little reward. Botas de Barro ('dirty boots') aims to turn that tide; a multi-regional vehicle for old vine fruit from some of Spain's unsung heroes.

Canopy - Toledo | Spain

Founded in 2004 by Belarmino Fernandez and Alfonso Chacon, Canopy has (quite unassumingly) played a significant role in helping the wider world to appreciate what the 'New Spain' is capable of – Michel Bettane even went so far as to acknowledge them as 'architects of the Spanish renaissance'. Belarmino and Alfonso are self-confessed 'terroir obsessives', driven by a desire to bottle the unique characteristics of their little corner of Sierra de Gredos.

Des Andres Sisters - Spain

Ruth de Andres trained as a Chemist in Sheffield and was just about to embark on her PhD when she realised that she couldn't bear the thought of spending another chunk of her life in a lab, so she returned to Spain and quickly fell in love with winemaking. She studied there, then moved to Bordeaux where she completed her degree and worked Pascal Ribéreau-Gayon and Michel Rolland at Chateau Pape Clement. Returning to Spain once again she began a five year stint with Bodegas Torres before going on to manage a number of boutique wineries and then launched Aleavini with her sister Ana.

Garcia De Lara - Toledo | Spain

Miguel Garcia de Lara and his brothers and sisters are slowly reviving their historic, century-old family vineyards and winery, whilst all their neighbours are uprooting their vineyards to plant other things. The family's undeniably boutique project centres on their ancient Cencibel (Tempranillo) and Airen vineyards. Bush vines are stretched to their limits by the harsh, extreme climate in Toledo, bordering Madrid, where summers are very hot and dry, leading to intense flavours.

Gulp Hablo - La Mancha | Spain

The Parra family's pursuit came from the devotion of the three brothers (Francisco, Javier, and Luis) to find a sense of place in their home of La Mancha. They founded their property in 1993 with the conviction to organically and biodynamically farm every vine under their care. At the time they were viewed not so much as pioneers but positively eccentric (how the world has changed) but they are now amongst the largest organic wine producers in Europe.

USA

Crosby/ Norton Ridge- California | USA

Plato once said, kind of, that ‘necessity is the mother of invention’. Delicious, good value Californian wine probably wasn’t considered in ‘Republic’, but it was certainly considered by the buyers of New York in the late 1990’s. They wanted benchmark, varietally correct Californian wines they could sell in their stores and restaurants. They also needed them to compete price-wise with the big brands they all knew and despised. It was from this ‘need’ that the Crosby and Norton Ridge brands were born.

UKRAINE

Beykush - Mykolaiv | Ukraine

Beykush Winery is a family winery located on the shores of the Black Sea, in the village of Chernomorka, which is set in the Mykolaiv region. Their founder, Eugene Shneyderis, setup the winery in a pretty unique location: a peninsula, surrounded by water on three sides. The peninsula, or Cape Beykush, as it is known, is a part of the flat watershed plateau between Bugsy and Berezansky estuaries of the Southern Steppe, with formed dark chestnut loamy soils.

As an elite athlete and world-famous tennis player, Sergiy Stakhovsky didn't think wine had a place in his life. That is until he was offered a spot to play in the French Team Championship for the Bordeaux team, Villa Primrose. His time spent in Bordeaux began a life-changing experience of not only learning about wine from the terroir and the producers themselves but also learning to love wine as a wine consumer, something he'd not been previously.

Tanaka 1789 x Chartier - Miyagi | Japan

We love a producer who does things differently ... which is why Tanaka 1789 x Chartier was a natural choice to join our portfolio. The story began in Canada with François Chartier, a wine industry veteran, former World's Best Sommelier and 'aroma specialist' who was inspired to bring the art of blending to the sake breweries of Japan after a visit to the Tanaka brewery in 2018.

Artisan - East Sussex | England

An entrepreneur and an artist walk into a bar...No joke – it happened. That’s where they met Mikey. The rest, as they say, is history! The UK founders Steve Cooper, Alan Walsh and Mikey Enright – respectively the drinks entrepreneur, the international artist, and award-winning mixologist – all had one thing in common, a desire to do things differently.
